2019-03-29	1935	Nature & Environment	Coast New Zealand	Final Episode	Far North	01	6	The warm subtropical top of the North Island is famed for its beauty and history. Nowhere in New Zealand is land entangled more vividly with the sea than around the beautiful but sometimes wild Far North peninsula. Nor is there a region where landscape speaks more potently of its history. There are 144 islands in the aptly named Bay of Islands which is a mecca for fishing and boating. It was in Waitangi that the country's founding document - the Treaty of Waitangi - was signed between Maori and the Crown. Across the bay the tranquil town of Russell belies its colourful past as a haven for lawless whalers and traders when it became known as the 'Hellhole of the Pacific. The Far North is also home to the largest tribe (iwi) in New Zealand - Nga Puhi - whose leaders and battles are legendary.	UNITED KINGDOM	English-100	2015		PG		Y
