2022-07-03	1730	History	Elvis And The Uss Arizona	Premiere	Elvis And The Uss Arizona		0	Elvis And The USS Arizona tells the surprising story of how one of music's biggest icons helped to establish a USS Arizona memorial in Pearl Harbour. In the late 1950s, the USS Arizona Memorial Commission was struggling to raise money for a permanent memorial to honor the 1,177 crewmen who lost their lives aboard the battleship on December 7, 1941. After a successful fundraising push, momentum had slowed, and though construction on the approved design was underway, only half of the necessary funds had been raised. Recently honorably discharged from the U.S. Army and headed to Hawaii to begin filming Blue Hawaii, Elvis was presented by his manager to the idea of a benefit concert to support the memorial fund. He agreed without hesitation and on March 25, 1961, performed to a sold-out crowd at the Bloch arena on the naval base. Elvis' concert would draw public attention to the plight and help galvanize efforts to finish the USS Arizona Memorial as it still stands today.	USA	English-100	2021		PG			Y

While suffering the anguish of exile on the remote island of St. Helena, before his death, memoirs suggested that Napoleon thought posterity would admire him not only for his battles, but for bringing culture and beauty to the people, for creating the state school system and the modern idea of a universal museum, owned by everyone, open to the common people. It's from this aspect of his life that Napoleon: In The Name Of Art was born - a documentary featuring the Oscar-winner Jeremy Irons as a very special guide	ITALY	English-100	2021		PG			Y
