The volunteers have been given one of three diets to follow - based on their genes, their hormones and their psychology. But now they are back at home, trying to stick to their personalised diets with all the stresses and temptations of real life. Dr Chris van Tulleken and Professor Tanya Byron discover how our genetic makeup can make temptation difficult to resist, how understanding the brain reveals what makes us comfort eat and what science can tell us about why we make disastrous food choices. (Part 2 of 3) (From the UK) (Documentary) PG CC **New Episode****
- 8:30 pm PAN-American Road Trip With Dara And Ed - Costa Rica To Panama - On the last leg of their pan-American road trip, Dara and Ed travel south through the mountains of Costa Rica to Panama. In northern Costa Rica, the Pan Am follows the exact same trail blazed by the Richardson expedition over 70 years ago. Here, Dara and Ed become Sabaneros or Costa Rican Cowboys for the day, learning to herd cattle on horseback and lasso calves at the El Cojito ranch. When Costa Rica began constructing their section of the Pan-American Highway, no-one could have predicted the effect it would have on the wildlife. Dara and Ed visit the Centro de Rescate Las Pumas animal rehabilitation centre, where they meet orphaned anteaters and jaguars whose territories have been disrupted by the building of the road.
