Portland, Oregon - aka the mecca of hipsters - has real people being affected by changes that gentrification brings. Kamau Bell travels to Portland to meet the people affected by the rapid changing of their neighbourhoods while also talking to the hipsters who've moved there to ask: is it a coincidence that the place some say is the coolest in the country also happens to be the whitest in America? Two beaches. Two Tribes. Two expressions of newly found freedom. But at what cost? Mamaia is the stomping ground for the nouveau riche who earn big in Romania's capital Bucharest in the week and spend bigger in the elite bars and clubs on Mamaia beach every weekend. 20-year-old rich kids pouring Ciroc over each other at pool parties, economic and market freedom at its most palpable, you can practically taste the new money. Down the coast in Vama Veche a group of nouveau hippy idealists founded a haven for people who shared their spirit and love. Now, following the lead from Goa, and even Ibiza, what was once pure and untainted, Vama Veche is a commercialised vacuum, a packaging of the Free Love ideal sold to gap year kids. - 10:45 pm Big Night Out - Dancing On The Devils Isle - Ibiza is a place that looms large in all our imaginations: the sun-kissed, beer-drenched rock in the middle of the Mediterranean where all hedonistic dreams can come true. But what is it that makes people come back year after year to the same tiny island? Host Clive Martin sets off to investigate the magnetic appeal of "the party island", and meets a cast of characters including DJs Carl Cox and Luciano, a crew of scantily clad club-dancers, puking Brits abroad, Alfredo Fiorito (the man who basically invented Ibiza as we know it today) and a 10-foot-tall flying rave robot.
